Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 18 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Fine Friday morning, but cloudier and windier with rain later.

This Evening and Tonight:
Isolated showers soon dying away, leaving a dry and locally chilly remainder of the night, with a touch of frost possible briefly in the most prone rural spots. Perhaps becoming cloudier and breezier in western areas into daybreak. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Friday:
Mainly fine during the morning, with some hazy sunshine, however becoming cloudier later as rain makes erratic inroads eastwards, perhaps not reaching the far east until late. Windy but mild. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Mostly fine but breezy Saturday, with rain retreating westwards. Rain perhaps returning eastwards Sunday, but easing along with the wind. Monday initially murky with some fog, but brighter later. Mild.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.